IN MAY.

(M. V. D.)

The world seems young—your wooded night Doth glow with richer green;
We may not gaze on fairer sight,
Than in this valley seen.

The wild-rose climbs the craggy wall,
Or bluffs where trees creep; Near by we hear the stream-fall
The grass with dew still weeps.

Doth time of age in life's contrast So wide, heart chills in May;
The wild-rose with its star, Oh yes the world seems now so young.

We bring the cent'ries o'er,
And feel what Grecian poets sang, Mid "shades" of classic lore.

"GRADUATING ESSAYS."

Essay Read by Miss Cora Anderson, of Hopkinsville, Ky., at the Commencement of Bethel Female College, May 31, 1883.

Observed from a practical point of view, those annual literary contributions known as "Graduating Essays," are of little or no real value. They impart no information, instruct nobody, and perhaps their greatest value consists in making a season of festivity. The ideas they contain have, as a rule, been far more ably discussed by persons of greater ability, and they can lay no greater claim to public attention, than the fact that they are the efforts of school girls.

We know that the mass of the people who hear us to-night, will go forth from these walls with feelings of the deepest indifference. Our success or failure will not effect the public in the least. If one essay be brilliant and another commonplace, of course the contrast may and will tickle the vanity of the immediate friends of the one and depress the spirits of those of the other.

But the point I want to make is, that the general public care but very little about graduating essays and graduates. Of course every one who knows of it, takes an interest in those just starting in life, but the fact of their being college graduates adds no new attractions to the event.

These graduating essays cannot justly claim any intrinsic worth.
For how could you expect one just on the threshold of life, who has spent the years of her development in gaining a little theoretical information, to have in her experience anything of practical importance to the world?

She has been absent from the common affairs of life, and the only view she has ever had of the world has been as it were from "over the garden wall." It is surprising how little a girl may know when she has taken her college degree, especially if she has been industrious and stuck to her studies. In society the graduate is expected to be literary, while her literature is confined to the old crystallized formula of the college curriculum, and, as a matter of course, she is not up in current affairs.

Yes, this graduate is a wonderful thing. She is looked upon by the world at large as a sort of tutored num-skull, altogether devoid of adaptability to the practical affairs of life, while her immediate friends and connections may estimate her as of little present worth, but with a wonderful amount of possible outlook. The literary value then, as I have remarked, of these graduating essays is nothing, but their real value consists in something else. They mark a period in our lives. Events show men's progress. The stages of our lives are not indicated by days and weeks, but by actions. As we come before you to-night with our school-girl productions, it is to indicate that we are about to leave one stage of action for another. Our last few years have been spent in the past —the storied past. We have been talking and thinking with men long dead, while the world has been sweeping on in its grand march of progress. We have been dealing in abstractions and our pleasures have been way back in the old time of fable, while men around us have been working the real problem of life and whirling in the flash of actual delight. Yes, the world knows much of things we never had an intimation, but what we have been doing is not altogether profitless. The boy or girl who has been in the actual fight has an experience to which we cannot now pretend, but which we may soon gain, while we have something we can never know. We have been, as it were, fitting our armor on and sharpening our weapons so that we may go to the thickest of the battle, well prepared for noble work.

To-night we are before you professing to have left the green squad, and are going to enter the ranks.
Our marching orders are "To the front," and we bid adieu to the green valley of our childhood and start for the frowning works beyond. The question comes up "What is there at present a woman can do?" Is there an opening in the world for her talents, or is she to lapse back into a life of ignominious ease? Remember the glories of her ante bellum life, some are raising the cry, "Don't soil woman's refinement with anything outside of a domestic duty." This word refinement is so much misunderstood. I say let woman work; do noble work. There are charity. She may smooth the brow of sorrow, she can teach and impress the beauties of her own life on growing generations, but for heaven's sake let's don't limit her work to a dull fireside monotony and make her only duty a matrimonial duty under the puling cry of refinement. On the other hand let us avoid that other extreme of rushing women into the public menial affairs of life.

Don't let her influence be felt by coarse contact with the ballot box and the rostrum, but let it be of that gentler kind which works unseen with the hearts and lays hold on the affections. That sentimentality which would convert women into mere drawing-room dummies is fast passing away. We want another kind of refinement, a refinement that will work immediate good. Let her have a refinement of labor, God knowing labor. The sentiment of our country is prepared for this.
Grand possibilities stand out before us, and as we quit the school room for the field, let us move to the front with brave hearts and working hands to take our stand abreast the spirit of the times and honor the beginning we have made. So with kind remembrances of the past, and bright hopes for the future, we start, and

"Here's health to all that love me,
Here's health to all that love me,
Here's health to all those that love them That love those that love them That love us."

Appended is a letter from T. J.
Fisher, which states that the evening before Davis was murdered, he spoke to him in regard to Mrs.
Thompson and said "I will hold up my hand and swear that so far as any criminal intimacy with her is concerned I am innocent, and I could convince Phil Thompson of it in a five minutes talk." Fisher told him he thought it was due Mrs. Thompson that he should talk with Phil. He said it was a delicate subject to approach a man on, and that the treatment he had received from the Thompsons since the alleged occurrence proved to him they did not believe the story. W. L. Walters corroborates this statement. Another gentleman states that Davis pretended his innocence of any wrong to Mrs. Thompson and that her presence in his room was due to the fact that they could not gain admittance to Miss Buckner's room.

Mrs. Thompson certifies that it is all a fabrication of Jessie Buckner to separate herself and husband and Walter Davis and wife; that Walter Davis never told her there was any wreck on the road; that they asked him to call and go to the theater with them; and they were not drunk, either of them, and they could not get in Miss Buckner's room when they returned from the theater; that Walter Davis was killed an innocent man; that she will swear until her death that he was a perfect gentleman, and devoted to her husband and self, and that she spent time and money in electing for him, and that his seat in congress to-day is due to the Daveses' influence and their money.

Mrs. Davis concludes as follows: "This is the whole story. It is possible that a gentleman cannot with propriety invite a lady to his room on a cold night, when no other fire is convenient, and when she is barred admission to Miss Buckner's room?
Is it necessary to kill a man, and heap slander and aspersions on his name when the bullet has forever sealed his lips and the only living witness is suppressed by the judge who presided at the trial? If this is so, and Kentuckians look on with approval, then indeed is "justice fled to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reason."

The following letter from Mrs. Davis appeared in the Lexington Transcript of Sunday:

"Feeling that a generous public, who have really heard but one side of the story of the late tragedy in Harrodsburg, may yet retain enough interest in the whole matter to desire the whole truth, and urged by an uncontrollable desire to place before the public such evidence as will relieve my late husband of the stigma now resting on his name, I have prepared the following statement, with the accompanying letters, which for the purpose of acquitting Phil B.
Thompson, Jr., at the late trial, prevented the use of that time. The lips of my husband are sealed by the fatal bullet; those of the innocent wife could not be heard during the excitement and clamor preceding the acquittal. Without father, brother, or powerful friends to aid me in the terrible crisis that came so unexpectedly, crushed to the very earth by the horrible suddenness of the blow that widowed me and orphaned my darling children, is it any wonder that despair paralyzed myself and friends, and that we were helpless to prevent the wrongs perpetrated by the judge and jury, who extended their sympathy and favor to Thompson throughout the trial, and thus completed the great wrong which was hatched in the scheming brain and revengeful heart of Jessie Buckner? Mrs. Thompson has been a delicate diseased woman for ten years, and she does not hesitate to say that her husband had told her months ago that he would never live with her again, but would give her $50 a month as long as he was able.

The country will go democratic.
Senator Conkling has said it, Jay prominent candidates before the Chicago convention, has been rejected tion to accumulating lucre; Dorsey is in the toils of the law; Tabor has made his adieux; Mahone has disgusted his republican bed fellows.

All this, with bickerings and dissensions here and there throughout their whole ranks, what is to hinder the democrats from electing the next president?—Nashville World.

DIED.

Dr. Saxe H. Fuqua, at Plano, Collin county Texas, aged 38, on the 22d of May, 1883.

All that is mortal of this Christian gentleman was placed on the following day in the cemetery of Plano, alongside those he knew not, and with only a few of whom he had shared the joys and sorrows of life.
The funeral was largely attended, and the pastor of the Baptist church, his warm personal friend, spoke beautifully of his moral worth and highly of his character. In that large audience there were missing all of his brothers and sisters, who were living in distant States, of all that were near and dear to him, only a wife and child were present to bear the brunt of so grave and heavy an afflic-tion. We are charged to speak nothing but good of the dead, and I doubt the merit of the maxim. But if the maxim is wise the life and the character of Dr. Fuqua were such that we would not invoke the shield which an observance of the maxim might afford. This man, so recently borne to the grave, was honest, simple of habit, and to the last loving his fellow man, and sowing the seeds of his humanity; he was a manly man, and neither in his public nor private life did he do or sanction that which tended to blur the line that marks; the boundary between right and wrong. He was a fearless champion of the former. He never compromised with the latter.

Those who knew him will uncover to do honor and reverence for the man who devoted his life to the services of his fellow man. Dying in full possession of his faculties he gave every evidence of his confidence and trust in the atonement of Christ. To him he committed his spirit, and passed over into the Beyond.

The Owen News thinks local option is a success in Owen, where it is now in force.

There will be thirteen contested seats before the committee on elections in the next Congress.

Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, has called an extra session of the Legislature, the 12th inst. to consider the re-apportionment of the State.

Capt. T. D. Marcum, of the Catlettsburg Democrat, is announced as a candidate for Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives.

There are two preachers on the republican State ticket, but this is one time their religion will not save them.

Whittaker, the colored cadet, who was expelled from West Point for mutilating his own ears, is now a professor in Avery Institute at Charleston, S. C.

It has always been the boast of Col. Jones' friends that he has ever been ready to "do battle for his party." He has a chance now to do some very effective work by stopping the mouths of some of his friends.

Hon. C. J. Pratt was formally nominated for the Senate by the Republicans of Hopkins county last week, but made a speech declining the nomination on the score of pressing private business. This leaves Esq. Peay without opposition thus far.

The Cincinnati News-Journal which was started with Gov. Jno. C. Underwood as manager, some six months ago, now boasts a circulation of half a million copies a month. It is a most excellent paper and deserves still greater success.

Some of the state papers are denouncing the combination which it is alleged Cecil formed with Sheldon to secure the nomination for Register of the Land office. We differ very widely from some of our contemporaries about such combinations. While we do not defend nor advocate them, we can see nothing criminal or corrupt in a fair division. Cecil now denies promising Sheldon the first clerkship and if, as alleged, he did so to get his votes and then refuses to fulfill his agreement, he is a base ingrate. A man's word should be as good as his bond in political as well as other business matters.

Hon. Thos. A. Hendricks, of Indiana, has stated in an interview that he would accept the second place on the Presidential ticket with Mr. Tilden in 1884 and thinks the old ticket would and should be elected. Mr. Hendricks' persistent refusal three years ago prevented the re-nomination of the same ticket in 1880 and it is not probable now that it will be nominated next year, as the fraud issue was surrendered with the nomination of Hancock & English. Mr. Tilden is now 70 years old and may be considered out of the ring as a Presidential candidate, as the Democratic party wants a young, vigorous man to head the ticket and cannot afford to inaugurate its first administration with a superannuated Executive.

We are gratified to see the Covington Commonwealth taking this gubernatorial muddle, although it is rather dilatory in doing so.

"The controversy concerning the nomination of a candidate for Governor by the Louisville Convention ought to be closed. No possible good can result from its continuance. The facts are before the people. If there was fraud the men who participated in it are marked and will be repudiated by the party should they offer for office. Proctor Knott was not identified with the trickery. His nomination will stand. He will be elected. It is folly to talk of an independent Democratic candidate. The Democrat who takes that position would close his political career in ignominious defeat. These are solid facts. No amount of discussion, nor interviews with defeated candidates can change them."

The Republican convention of Ohio last week nominated Judge Foraker for Governor, after Senator Sherman had declined. The following sketch of the nominee is taken from the News Journal:

Joseph Benson Foraker was born in Highland County, O., July 5, 1846. His grandfather came from Delaware in 1820, and settled where Reabsboro now stands, and where the judge's father now resides. After attending a country school, he entered at the age of fifteen the office of his uncle, James Reese, auditor of Hillsboro. The following year the war broke out and he enlisted as a private, but was soon made sergeant, and came out of the war as a captain. In 1869 he graduated at Cornell University, after which he came to Cincinnati and read law with Judge Sloan. He was admitted to the bar in October, 1870, and the following year married Miss Julia Bundy, of Jackson, from which marriage he has four children. In 1879 he was elected judge of the superior court, but resigned in 1882 on account of failing health and a preference for the practice of the law. He resides at Walnut Hills, and has a law office in the Pike Opera House.

The general impression prevails that if the Democrats nominate a Cincinnati man—Judge Hoadley for instance—that Foraker and the rest of the ticket will be overwhelmingly defeated. The Democrats are confidently claiming the state, and the Democratic leaders say any good man who may be nominated will be elected. The Democratic convention will be held on the 21st inst.

The Louisville Commercial, an alleged independent paper, which has been taking a very active interest in Col. Jones' affairs, since his defeat, has now changed base and has this to say of that gentleman:

"Col. Jones is being baited with by the Senatorial persimmon. If United States Senators grow on pear trees, and could be knocked off with walking canes, Col. Jones could not secure one. What are his claims? His threats of bolting? His ability which was rated less than Knott's by State Democracy? His service to the party in making speeches in mountain counties? These seem to sum up the Colonel as an active political quantity. Col. Jones seems to be a very ripe political banana, with not enough good peel for Knott to slip on."

The town of Fulton, Ky., was the scene of a bloody shooting affray last Friday. For some time there has been a set of roughs who have been trying to run the town. Two of these, Bill and John Ogles, raised a row in Joe Ogles' saloon, and the marshal summoned a posse and undertook to arrest them. The Ogleses opened fire and the posse responded for some minutes the bullets flew thick and fast. When all the weapons were emptied Bill Ogles was dead and a negro witness to the affair was also killed. Jno. Ogles was wounded but made his escape. Will Jones, one of the marshal's posse was shot in the arm and head but not seriously hurt, and the marshal was badly beaten over the head, and his life was only saved by the bravery of Henry Cannon.

A 33rd birthday for an American town is certainly worthy to be commemorated, and there is only one place in the United States where it can be done. The people of Santa Fe, New Mexico, are showing a commendable spirit in preparing its Tercentennial Anniversary on a grand scale. The programme, which will be sent to any address on application to the general manager, presents a remarkable list of novelties illustrating the three civilizations which have occupied the country.—New Mexican.

Mr. Revill was the Judas Iscariot of the Jones party.—Glasgow Times.
Mr. Revill was the chairman of the Owen delegation who, acting under his instructions, refused to listen to bolters, but had the manliness and nerve to cast the vote of his county for Knott, in spite of the protests of those who attempted to over-ride the will of their constituents. The Times should not compare Mr. Revill to a traitor.

The Covington Commonwealth disclaims having encouraged Col. Jones to bolt. We thought the effort to stir up strife and cause disaffection in the party ranks, on account of Col. Jones' defeat, was not the proper way to stand by the nominee, hence our enquiry. We are glad to note that our contemporary has fallen into line and is doing good work for Mr. Knott.

Under the new rule adopted by the State Central Committee, giving precedence to the county having the largest Democratic vote, the chairmanship of the Second Congressional district has been transferred from Christian to Daviess county. Christian has held it heretofore in an alphabetical arrangement of the counties.

Edward Clarence Boyd, a young artist of some note and promise, was shot and killed in Louisville last week by his brother-in-law, Dr. W. W. Barnes. Domestic troubles between Barnes and his wife (Boyd's sister) led to the shooting. Boyd was 28 years old.

The Owensboro Messenger says the Republicans of Hopkins county have nominated Ben F. Johnson, of Christian county, for Senator. He is in thunder in Johnson? He is not known in this part of Christian county.

Tom Cannon went to the woods last week to "inhale the fragrant flowers," and he was so afraid of getting snake bitten that he carried a bottle of "antidote" along with him.

The Todd county republicans have nominated a negri named Ben Mausfield for the Legislature. It will be a cold day when the republicans of Christian county follow the example of their Todd county brethren.

It is said that Judge Foraker, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, is subject to fits. The Democratic candidate will give him fits this year whether he has ever had any before or not.

T. C. Calvert, cashier of the Bank of Bowling Green, who fled to Mexico in 1870, a defaulter in the sum of $500,000, was last week pardoned of all crimes and offenses by Gov. Blackburn.

General Sheridan is to describe in the July number of the North American Review the part that he took in compelling the surrender of General Lee.

John Sherman "was sent for and couldn't go" when the Ohio Republicans were looking for a gubernatorial candidate. He preferred to retain his seat in the Senate.

P. J. Sheehy, one of the Guileau jurors has become insane. The wonder is that all of them did not go crazy before the trial was concluded.

John McKinley, a promising young man of Somerset, Ky., looked into the barrel of a pistol. His funeral was largely attended.

The Kentucky dentists held their thirteenth annual meeting in Louisville last week.

A dentist's work is often like circus lemonade—tooth in.

Kentucky Republicans are boasting that theirs is a party of Morrow-ality.

Colorado was visited by a severe snow storm June 8th.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine

The July number affords the most interesting and entertaining reading. In literary and artistic merit this magazine successfully competes with the best of its contemporaries. The Rev. F. C. Ewer contributes No. VI. of "Religious Denominations in the United States—What is the Anglican Church?" Those admirable papers are continued, "Among the Natives of the North," by Lieutenant Schwatka, and "The American Pilgrim in Palestine," by De Leon; "Live Churches" is a characteristic article by the Editor, Dr. Talmage, who also contributes to the home Pulpit a sermon, "Solicitude." "A Visit to Whittier" and "Dr. Newman on Spiritualism" are among the other notable article. There are interesting sketches, essays, serial and short stories, with poems of great merit; a varied Miscellany, together with Editorial comments, Record of Important Events, Obituary Notices, etc. A single copy is 25 cents, or $3 a year, postpaid. Address, Mrs. Frank Leslie, Publisher, 53, 55, & 57 Park Place, New York.

"Well's Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Depravities.

TOBACCO NEWS.

Sales by Graves & Hancock, since last report, of 254 hds., as follows: 30 hds., common lugs at from $3 75 to 4 25. 70 hds., good to fine lugs at from $4 25 to 6 00. 101 hds., common to medium leaf at from $5 75 to 7 00. 53 hds., good leaf at from $7 25 to 10 00.

The market during the past month has been at times irregular and unsatisfactory but at the last shows a decided better feeling and advance over the first part of the month. The offerings continue to show much undesirable tobacco, confirming the opinion that the crop is one of the worst ever grown. There is much of it handled and prized too high and is sweating out badly. The prospect for the growing crop is certainly gloomy, owing both to the scarcity and lateness of plants. While this is exaggerated by some, there can be no doubt that it is not realized by others. Under no circumstances can a full crop be planted in this section.

Sales by Buckner & Woodridge June 6th and 7th 1883, 152 hds., as follows: 39 hds., medium to good leaf, $1 75 to 5 50. 48 hds., common and low mixed leaf, $5 80 to 7 00. 29 hds., good lugs $4 50 to 5 80. 36 hds., common and trashy lugs, $4 00 to 4 25. Market continues firm with a good general demand.

Sales by Abernathy & Co., June 6, 1883, of 75 hds., as follows: 15 hds., good leaf from $9 50 to 7 00. 50 hds., common leaf from $6 50 to $5 00. 10 hds., lugs from $5 50 to 4 00. Market strong on lugs and good flat leaf with medium grades stationary.

BENNETTSTOWN.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
Our little town is growing very rapidly, she can boast of three dry good houses, one black-smith shop, saw mill and hotel.

They will commence work on the Old School Presbyterian church in a few days.

Dr. Hugh Gates, of this place, who got his arm broken a short time ago is on a visit to his father in Calhoun, McLean county, Ky.

The railroad fever is raging in this section now. Judge C. G. Smith, Thos. Henry, of Clarksville, and Esq. Quarles, of Garrettsburg, addressed the people of Bennettstown, on the subject May 21st. Their speeches were of weight and to the point.

Corn looks bad in this section; a great deal of fear is entertained that there will not be a full crop of tobacco raised in this section on account of the flies. Farmers report the oat crop light.

On Saturday night June 2nd, we had a nice little show at the school house near this place, had good music on the organ and violin and also singing by Mr. Garnett.

Mr. Joe Crews, of this neighborhood, has been quite ill for several weeks with rheumatism, but his many friends will be glad to hear that he is able to be about again.

Mrs. K. McRae, of this place, is on a visit to her old home at Pembroke; she will return in a few days.

The iron fronts to the Thompson block on east Main have been put up.

Many farmers took advantage of the seasons last week and finished planting tobacco.

The north-bound freight train, with passenger coach attached, now leaves at 5 o'clock in the morning.

Next Thursday night is "nominating night" at Evergreen Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

The farmer's delight,—the cool range—the best whisky made at O. S. Stevens.

Mr. Chas. Catlett, Jr. returned from Parkersburg, Virginia, last week, where he was married May 29th to Miss Nolan.

There will be a wedding at the Baptist church next Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Invitations general.

Messrs. C. G. McDaniel and A. W. Pyle have each bought a lot 85 feet in width on east Main street south of Mrs. Buckner's. One more lot of the same size is still unsold.

Sue Miles, a negro woman who cooked for Mr. Wm. H. West, fell dead of heart disease on Princeton street last week. She was about 28 years old.

The advertisement of the well-known and popular Sebree Springs appears elsewhere in this issue. The hotel will be well kept this season and there will be no resort pleasanter to visit than Sebree.

Mr. Bernard P. Green, of Henderson, Ky., who married Mrs. Wallace, of this city two or three years ago, died last week, after being sick only one day. He had a number of friends and acquaintances in this county.

The trial of H. G. O'Neill, charged with assault and battery upon the person of K. R. McKee, was called after numerous postponements last Tuesday and the defendant was tried and acquitted. He was tried before Esquire Peter F. Rogers.

The ladies of the Cumberland Presbyterian church gave a lawn fete at the residence of Mr. M. W. Grissam last Friday evening. It was a very pleasant affair and the ladies realized $70 above expenses.

$22.50 will buy a full size, No. 8, Eureka cook stove, a kitchen gem, that has made more girls long for married life than all the white vests and brass buttons in Jimmie Pyle's store. To those who want to wed in life we say buy it of Taylor & Rea.

Judge F. M. Pepper, of Kirksmansville, in Todd county, has a beard 27 1/2 inches in length. It continues to increase in length several inches every year. When at home he keeps it pinned up like a woman's hair. Judge Pepper is now in his 54th year and is a clever gentleman and a useful citizen.

Messrs. Lloyd & Bronaugh, of Pembroke, are agents for the new Osborne self-binding harvester, one of the best machines in the market. It is one of the simplest, most durable, and the lightest draft machine ever placed on the market and every machine is warranted to be as represented. The above firm have the Osborne machines on exhibition at Gant's warehouse in this city. Go and take a look at them before buying. See their conspicuous advertisement on this page.

The commencement exercises at Princeton (Ky.) College will take place this week, and promise to be of more than usual interest. Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge will deliver the literary address on Wednesday evening, the 13th, while other exercises, literary, musical and social, will be held on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings. This institution is under the control of the Presbytery of Louisville, and that body has appointed Judge J. I. Landess, of this city, one of a committee to attend these exercises.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of the public to the conspicuous advertisement of the Sebree House, located in the pleasant little city of the same name, which is one of the most popular watering places in Kentucky, situated as it is on the Nashville and Henderson branch of the L. & N. Railroad. Sebree Springs, as well as the Sebree House, are held in high esteem by our people; the springs for their curative properties and the house for its good fare, comfortable rooms, and last but not least, the pleasant attentions of the agreeable landlady, Mrs. Couch, who sees that every guest is made comfortable.

The skating rink will be open on Tuesday and Friday evenings of each week from 8 till 11:30 o'clock. Admission 25 cents, use of skates 10 cents extra. Free to ladies every Monday afternoon from 3 till 6 o'clock.

The very excellent essay of Miss Cora Anderson which we publish today, is published by special request, and it was with great reluctance that the author consented to allow it to be given to the public.

Two new cases of fine imported wine at L. T. Gaines & Co's. Call and try them.

SMALLPOX AGAIN.

It Breaks Out in the Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum.

About the middle of May a patient in the Asylum, named Shaw, near this city, was taken with smallpox and died on the 23d of May.

The case was involved in mystery and the physicians were not certain that it was genuine smallpox. Shaw had not been out of the Asylum ward for fifteen years and had in no way been exposed to the disease.

Some days after the death of the first patient two other cases appeared in the same ward. These were two men named Price and Borin, also patients in the Asylum. This convinced the physicians that the disease was smallpox without doubt and precautions were at once taken to prevent its spread.

A pest house has been built and the smallpox patients have been taken to it and are treated by one of the doctors who does not go into the wards at all. On last Saturday a fourth case, a man named Anderson, was developed in a different ward, and fears are entertained that the disease will spread. So far only one has died and three other cases are now under treatment.

The Asylum is quarantined and every precaution will be made to check the spread of the epidemic. To those unacquainted with the facts it may be necessary to state that the Asylum is two miles from the city, and there is no danger whatever in coming to Hopkinsville.

MARRIED.

HORD-SMITH: At the residence of J. W. I. Smith, the bride's father, in this city, Wednesday June 6, 1883 at 9 o'clock p. m., by Rev. E. W. Bottomley, Mr. Percy W. Hord to Miss Ida L. Smith. Attendants: Mr. F. F. Henderson and Miss Jennie West.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the affable and courteous agent of the L. & N. railroad, at this place, and is a very attractive young lady.

The groom is a son of Mr. Peter Hord and is a young farmer of good habits and fine character. The parlors of Mr. Smith's residence were appropriately and handsomely decorated with flowers, evergreens, etc.

After the ceremony a party of select friends were invited to partake of a most delightful wedding feast, and the evening was a most enjoyable one to all present.

BLOOD, TAGO, BLOOD.

Max Mendel Shoots Two Men in Trying to Stop a Thief.

A Bootblack Arrested for Rape.

THE MENDEL SHOOTING.

On Saturday evening about 9 o'clock three pistol shots were suddenly heard on the corner of Nashville and Virginia streets and upon investigation it was found that two men had been shot by Max Mendel, a clerk in John Moayan's store.

The circumstances as detailed by Mendel are as follows:

Jim Jones alias Jim Downey, a negro man, was in Moayan's store and Mendel detected him in the act of slipping out with a pair of pants, stolen from the stock. Mendel snatched them from him and accused him of stealing them when the negro knocked him down with his fist. Mendel then ran behind the counter and got a pistol as Jones ran out at the door, and following him to the door fired three shots into the street. One of the bullets struck Jones in the thigh, inflicting a flesh wound of but little consequence. Another shot struck Mr. R. H. Lovier, a workman in Howe's jewelry store, who was coming down the street on the opposite side. Lovier was shot in the knee and was taken home and when his wound was examined the ball dropped out. He was not seriously wounded, though the hurt is a painful one and will keep him confined for a few days.

Jones was arrested, but not having any stolen goods at the time was released, and went to his home in the edge of town. His wound is troublesome, but is a mere flesh wound and does not amount to much. Mendel is under a bond of $500 and will be tried as soon as the other parties are able to appear in court. He is severely censured for shooting at random into the streets while people were continually passing. He is an inoffensive young man who has borne a good character and no one regrets more than he that an outside party should have been wounded. His trial will probably result in an acquittal.

A YOUTHFUL RAPE.

Joe McLoughlin, a colored bootblack about twelve or fifteen years old, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Lizzie Wallace, col., for attempting to commit a rape upon the person of her daughter, a child nine years old. McLoughlin is in jail and his trial will come up tomorrow.

GRANGERS.

A Big Time for the Grangers in Christian County.

On last Thursday morning the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN quill driver found himself, at an early hour, on the way to the first annual sale of the Casky Grange, five miles south-east of this city. The day threatened to be inclement and during the morning a cold drizzling rain fell at short intervals, but after dinner the sun came out and the day was clear and pleasant. Upon arriving at Casky we found a pretty large crowd present and an active interest being manifested in the sale of stock despite the rain. Cattle went off at good and some at even fancy prices, sheep not so well and wool at from 18 to 20 cents.

Dinner was spread in the grove adjoining the church and there was an abundance for all present. The managers of the various departments spared no pains to make the sale a success in every respect and they certainly succeeded. May these annual sales grow in interest with the recurring years is our wish and we hope to attend many more of them in the future.

CHURCH HILL. If the crowd at Casky Thursday was a good one, what shall we say of that at Church Hill Friday? It was simply immense. The whole woods were alive with humanity for hundreds of yards around. Church Hill is an old and well established Grange, numbering 178 members. It was estimated that 3,000 persons were in attendance. Every arrangement had been made for the convenience and entertainment of the buyers and visitors. Large stock pens had been built for the stock and Col. R. E. Edmondson, of Lexington, one of the finest auctioneers in the State, conducted the sale both there and at Casky.

Provisions were spread out at twelve o'clock and after everybody had eaten enough, large baskets full were taken back home by the hospital Grangers. There was never anything like it. The best of order was maintained at the tables and if anybody went away hungry it was his own fault. Throughout the day the order maintained was excellent. Only one case of boisterous drunkenness was observable and that was estimated disposed of and a fine of $10 imposed by a magistrate who tried it on the grounds.

To the managers of the sale and the officers of the Grange the large crowd is greatly indebted for a most pleasant day. Aside from the pleasure attending these annual sales they are of the greatest benefit to the farmer. They arouse an active interest and a spirit of competition which must be attended by the best results. The stock at this sale did not sell quite as well as at Casky. There was more to sell and while none of the prices obtained were fancy most of them were satisfactory and the universal verdict was that the sale was a pronounced success. The Church Hill Grange should feel proud of the

DR. BARKER.
 Many Patients Under Treatment
 TIME AGAIN EXTENDED.

The liberal patronage of this eminent oculist and aurist from Cincinnati, Ohio, has induced him to remain at Cooper's Phoenix Hotel, Hopkinsville, Ky., until Tuesday, June 26th. Look to your Eyes, Ears, Nose and Throat.

He treats successfully all diseases of the above organs, with new and improved methods, resorting to surgical operations only when absolutely necessary, requiring no detention from home and business. If you are needing his services come as early as possible so that a perfect cure can be made during his stay. This is a golden opportunity for those using spectacles, particularly to those of near, weak or peculiar sight. If you are not ready for treatment come and be examined. If you have doubts in regard to his skill come and see the living witnesses. Remember Tuesday, June 26, is positively the last day. Time postponed for Princeton till June 27th.

Peterson's Magazine for July is on our table. ahead of all others, and even more brilliant than usual. The leading illustrated article is entitled "Where Colonel Newcome Died," and will be read, with the greatest interest, by every admirer of Thackeray. The principal story is "A Fifth Avenue Romance," a novel of which the first four chapters are given, and which, besides being written with great spirit, is evidently from the pen of one entirely at home in the society she describes. The other stories, however, are all exceptionally good, and especially one by Frank Lee Benedict, "From a Pretty Girl's Note-Book," which is the best of its kind we have seen for a long time. The embellishments consist of a steel engraving, "Little Mischievous," after a picture by Sir Joshua Reynolds; a mammoth steel, colored fashion-plate: "The Reaper;" "With Her Groom;" and nearly fifty wood engravings of fashions, embroidery, etc., etc. A new volume begins with this number, affording an excellent opportunity to subscribe. We really do not see how any can do without this magazine. It combines more, and of a better quality, at a less price than any other. The terms are but two dollars a year, with great deductions to clubs, and handsome premiums to persons getting up clubs. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for, to those wishing to get up clubs. Address Peterson's Magazine, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
